

Back in 1967, Port Isaac man Maurice Brown was in Nigeria. It was the time of the Biafran War and he felt he would never see his home village again. He was inspired to paint this picture on a piece of wood 4'x3'6" and with the only medium he could find - Snowcem and varnish.

Luckily Maurice did come home - along with his huge picture that he managed to get shipped back - and today he lives close by in Camelford.
