Our MP, Scott Mann talks to Trio

During the conference recess I travelled to Taiwan with a group of MPs to meet with Taiwanese ministers and officials to discuss how we can strengthen trade ties with the UK and to promote 'Cornwall Pic'. As a guest of the Taiwanese Government who organised the trip, it was a great opportunity for me to represent North Cornwall and promote the brilliant things Cornish people make and the county as a holiday destination.

I sit on the Taiwanese-British All Party Parliamentary Group which aims to strengthen trade and political ties between Taiwan and the UK, and this trip comes at an important juncture as Britain starts to engage in more trade talks with countries around the world to grow our export markets.

On the trip I was joined by the Minister of State for International Trade, Greg Hands, who met with his Taiwanese counterpart to discuss closer trade ties. By having backbench MPs there like myself, we were able to meet with ministers, officials and business representatives to promote the UK as well as our own constituencies. I wanted to promote Cornwall's fantastic food and drink sector which has grown a lot in recent years. With the Duchy much more well known around the world thanks to TV programmes like Doc Martin and Poldark, Cornwall has a very good opportunity to not only attract more visitors from overseas, but also to export more of its products to other corners of the globe.

The fish and shellfish that we land in Cornwall is very popular abroad already, and by finding new buyers this will make the export market more secure and beneficial for a number of producers in North Cornwall. I also hope the trip will be a catalyst for selling more of our goods to Taiwan and other countries, particularly our most popular food and drink like pasties, fudge, chocolate, cider, wine and ale. By exporting Cornish goods to more places around the world, people will become more familiar with Cornwall which will hopefully attract them to come and visit and contribute to our economy. Some important announcements were subsequently made at the Conservative Party Conference which I welcome, particularly the Prime Minister's update on Brexit and the Chancellor's commitment to EU-funded projects.

Theresa May confirmed that in next year's Queen's Speech, she will introduce the Great Repeal Bill to nullify the European Communities Act 1972 which currently enshrines our membership of the EU into UK law. This will be repealed once we have left the EU after the Article 50 negotiations, which should hopefully conclude in Spring 2019.

The Chancellor Philip Hammond also gave his commitment to multi-year EU-funded projects which will likely require central government money after Brexit. He has already guaranteed funding for projects signed off by this year's Autumn Statement, but this announcement goes further by committing to other long term projects which will likely require government assistance during and after Brexit.

I'm keen to see a regional funding model implemented so that Cornwall can continue to receive investment but without the hoop jumping and bureaucracy that comes from Brussels, and I know the Cornwall LEP and Chamber of Commerce want this as well.

Port Isaac Rowing Club celebrates in style

25 YEARS

Port Isaac Rowing Club celebrated their 25th year in style on Friday, with a three course meal and music from The Tricade at the Longcross Hotel. This follows a long line of celebratory events throughout the year, particularly the rededication of the Pilot Gig Corsair in April, marking the 25th anniversary of her first launch.

The Club gave a warm welcome to everyone who joined the festivities, many who were past members and including the original ladies crew who went to the World Championships.

Congratulations to all the winners of trophies on the evening too, including Tony Cook, who won the Bob Bulgin Award (for the best all round club member), Sheelagh Driscoll who won Lady Rower of the Year. Charlie Moorwood, for Male Rower of the Year. Brad Squires for Most Improved Rower and finally, the Broken thole pin was awarded to Neil Blackeby, Atlantic Rower, who has managed to break a pin on the first stroke of a race, losing his paddle overboard in the process!

Sheelagh Driscoll - Lady Rower of the Year

Special thanks were given to Trevor Beare, Bob Bulgin and Jon Cleave who were part of the original club founding committee; with many helping with the fundraising for Corsair and Jon coming up with the idea of interest free loans from locals and businesses and designing the club's first logo. Trevor is also a past chairman.

Music at St Endellion

Following the book festival with its two energetic concerts, our next concerts return to a more classical genre with a choral concert in November and a string quartet in early December.

The Endelienta Scholars: Faith, Hope, Life, Love - Saturday 19th November, 7.30pm

The Endelienta Scholars, a dynamic young chamber choir, are returning to St. Endellion with a programme of beautiful musical reflections with many choral favourites both sacred and secular - including works by composers such as Byrd, Bruckner, Parry, Stanford, Tavener, Whitacre. Co-founded by soprano Katy Thomson and Oliver Tarney (Head of Composition and Singing at Winchester College), the choir includes choral scholars

The Zoltan Ensemble - Sunday 4th December, 3pm

Lowri Porter, Nancy Johnson and Rosalind Gladstone are joined by Rose Redgrave and David Chadwick to perform Brahms' G major string quintet to follow up their performance last year of his only other viola string quintet. Again, they will link the Brahms with a Mozart quintet, this time his 2nd in C Minor. We are fortunate to welcome this talented group of musicians back to North Cornwall for another wonderful afternoon concert.

Tickets for both these concerts are £10 (free to accompanied under-16s) and available from the Endelienta Box Office: telephone 07787 944935 or online at www.endelienta.org.uk

Or you can call in at the Wadebridge Bookshop, 43 Molesworth Street, Wadebridge.

Port Isaac Chorale news

This month, we are very pleased to welcome two new members, Ken and Graham, to the fold and hope that they will have many enjoyable times with us. We must be a good looking choir as we seem to be attracting several men at the moment, so much so, that we would now like to find a top soprano to balance the ranks! If you are at all interested, please get in touch.

Several of our members enjoyed lunch at the Old School House, Port Isaac, one of many regular lunches that provide that all-important opportunity to chat, which is such an integral part of singing together! Thank you to Jeremy for organising this.

Rehearsals are now well underway for our forthcoming Music Hall evening and Festival competition in the Spring. Having got a good grasp of the various harmonies we will spend the next few weeks fine-tuning under the directorship of Sue Flitter who deputises when Janet, our MD, is away.

Also, the choir will be 'dusting off' our Christmas music in time for the festive season where once again we will be joining forces with other local singing groups, for some 'Angelic' singing.

So, dates for the diary:

Wednesday December 14th, PISCES Christmas Carol Evening in St. Peter's Church, 7pm

Thursday December 22nd, Carols at Port Gaverne, come early

Saturday January 28th, Music Hall Night, Port Isaac Village Hall, 7.30 pm

Open the book

You may be surprised to learn that many children growing up today have little or no knowledge of the Bible. Even though these days, many people do not attend church, most of you reading this would feel it to be a great loss if your children and grandchildren didn't know the stories of Adam and Eve, David and Goliath, Daniel in the Lions' den and others, and weren't familiar with events in the life of Jesus, but unless they attend a church school or belong to a Bible reading family, they won't have this knowledge.

Thankfully, however, a scheme called 'Open the Book' has come to the rescue and now children in over 2000 primary schools across the country are being given the opportunity to know and experience the Bible through the presentation of dramatized Bible stories by teams of volunteers, who often belong to local churches.

This is what happens each week in St Kew and St Minver Primary Schools where local teams from our churches, present stories in an enjoyable way, with the children themselves often taking part. So far, there haven't been enough volunteers to form a team for Port Isaac School, but if anyone is interested in helping in this school or joining the other teams, do please contact me on 01208880181 or Marcus Jones, our new Children and Families Worker 07923913727.

Reflection on the relationship between drama and spirituality

A day reflecting on the relationship between drama and spirituality in a Midsummer Night's Dream will be held in St Endellion Church at 10.30am on Saturday November 5th. The day will be led by Revd Professor Paul Fiddes, University of Oxford, who through talks, discussion and video excerpts, will draw on two important quotations from the New Testament in the play, where Shakespeare encourages the audience to find the power which enables them to see things more clearly both in personal relationships and in civic society.

The study day will end at 3pm but at 6pm in St Minver Church, there will be a presentation of a new church 'liturgy for voices' combining new poetry, music and excerpts from the play and elements from the traditional Christian liturgy, with congregational involvement.

This liturgy of voices has already been presented in Stratford-upon-Avon, Oxford and St Martin-in-the-Fields.

RNLI NEWS

Port Isaac RNLI were thrilled to receive a cheque for £1,264 from The Port Gaverne Hotel. The restaurant, that has recently been named Best Inn in the South West at the Great British Pub Awards, has been giving a donation to Port Isaac RNLI for every lobster dinner sold. Chairman of Port Isaac RNLI, Bob Bulgin BEM said: "This is a fantastic amount of money to receive. It costs approximately £1200 to provide all of the necessary safety equipment for one crew member, so this money will go a long way. We would like to thank all at The Port Gaverne Hotel for their continued support". Landlord David Barnard is pictured here with crew and committee.

The RNLI Ball

Throughout the season we have been fortunate to have the RNLI Face to Face team to assist in the running of our shop, and working closely together with the Stations volunteer committee covering a number of key events, including the recent visit to Port Isaac by HRH Duke of Cornwall.

With the Station's 150th Anniversary Celebration Ball taking place, we all very much appreciated their thought in offering to help with the running of the event. A few minutes before the Marquee opened for business, with the team preparing to welcome the 350 guests attending, their manager, Jess Mills, seen here on the right, gathered her ladies together with Chairman Bob Bulgin who thanked them on behalf of Port Isaac RNLI for their enthusiastic and professional support.

Throughout the evening the team worked very closely with Committee member Cheryl Webster raising many thousands of pounds from running the Tombola – Silent Auction and Table Holiday Cottage Bid. thanks to the many generous supporters attending this star event.

From these activities and the Auction, conducted in true county style by professional Auctioneer Ross Collins, who brought the house down with his style and humour, the final fundraising figure for the evening is expected to be an all time record in the region of £20,000 pre final audit.

A memorable event such as this, which has taken months of detailed planning and sheer hard work does not come about by chance but calls upon a truly dedicated team. Congratulations to all, especially Lifeboat crewman James Bolton who gave 110% in heading up the working group so ensuring such a great success. The outcome has been a landmark celebration but most importantly the creation of substantial funds so that our volunteer lifeboat crews put to sea sure in the knowledge they have the very best of boat and equipment to provide for their safety in the dangerous conditions they frequently have to operate in.

CONGRATULATIONS

BILLY

Congratulations Billy Hardy, younger son of Jason & Liz (nee Dingle), aged 11. Following his love of different types of dancing with endless hours of lessons and practice, Billy applied for a place in the cast of the Hall for Cornwall pantomime, 2016. Well done Billy, we are all very proud of your commitment and achievement and are all so looking forward to the Boxing Night performance of Jack & the Beanstalk.

7. PA16/08432, Linden, 5 Trewetha Lane, Port Isaac – resubmission of withdrawn application PA16/05231 for the demolition of existing dwelling and erection of replacement dwelling. Members supported this application provided there is a construction plan to protect neighbouring properties and no building during the peak tourist time and any trees on site are protected.
8. PA16/08637, 46 New Road, Port Isaac – proposed replacement dwelling. Members liked the design of the building and supported the application.

Macmillan Cancer Support Coffee Morning at Trevathan Farm

On Friday September 30th we joined the rest of the country in holding our annual Macmillan Cancer Support Big Coffee Morning.

We would like to thank everyone who supported us – many donations were given, people enjoyed browsing the bring and buy stall and the raffle prizes were eagerly awaited when the draw took place. It was a lovely social morning with people moving from table to table speaking to friends they had not seen for a while.

So many people helped to make this event such a success and a big thank you to them all, to many people to name but we would like to give a special thanks to Honor for coming in at 6am to bake the cakes and scones.

We raised £1200.

Thank you again ...hope to see you all next year.

Children's Christmas Competition

It's looking like it will be a very 'angelic' Christmas again in Port Isaac this year. So once again we are going to stick with the angel theme and we are looking for your pictures of angels to decorate the Christmas edition of Trio. The competition will be divided into two age groups - up to 7 years old and 8-11 years old, and there will be prizes.

If you fancy having a go, your picture has to be in by no later than Wednesday November 30th.

Drop your completed entry into Secrets or to Calenia, 3 Trewetha Lane or email it to triopi@mac.com

Our year 5 and 6 children worked with artist Reg Payn and Mr Collinson to create a marvellous medicine machine for the festival. It looked fantastic and Mr Collinson rode it through Wadebridge. Thanks to everyone who went along to watch.

Advance Warning!

Our Christmas performance will be on Tuesday 13th December. This year the children will be presenting the story of Robin Hood in their own Port Isaac School style.

Harvest Festival

Harvest Festival took place in St Peter's Church on Tuesday October 18th. The children sang songs, recited poems and brought along produce to sell in celebration of harvest time. We also were able to sell the various squashes that we grew in school last term.

ARTiculate

Lighting up Port Isaac at Christmas

ARTiculate art collective are delighted to have been given the opportunity to work in collaboration with Port Isaac Christmas Lights committee to light up the village with a large illuminated angel lantern.

For the first time, Port Isaac will be included in the larger annual regional lights and singing project which has regularly taken place in Bodmin and Lostwithiel over the last few years. The fusion of musicians, artists, writers, schools, choirs and youth groups has been supported by a network of partnerships who are passionate about communities. They believe that these large, intergenerational projects, which involve collaboration and skill sharing, can draw people together to create a legacy that is long-lasting and sustainable. These are FEAST, Bodmin Christmas Lights, Lostwithiel Business Group, CYMAZ Music, Cornwall Music Hub, Youth Music, Arts Council, The Lovely Foundation, Cormac, ARTiculate and Port Isaac Christmas Lights.

Cornwall has a long-established, well-deserved, worldwide reputation for its rich and innovative approaches to creativity and the arts. The professional artists, writers and musicians involved in this project have all worked together across a wide range of these regional, national and international festivals. They also use their experience to work in a consultative capacity to ensure and enable other funded projects to be delivered across the county to an equally high standard - www.ARTiculatecollective.com, Facebook ARTiculate collective.

The theme of angels originated in Port Isaac last year when our streets were lined with a host of beautiful illuminated angels and the Church filled with angel decorations. The community Christmas messages of love and hope for the future inspired this years idea of creating a beautiful lantern which will be made and shared with other communities. The willow structure will be created in the village and the community will once again have the opportunity to add their messages to it before December 2nd. Tissue stars will be available in labelled boxes in the Co-op and the surgery for everyone to write their messages on - these will be collected and added to the finished lantern. The Stay & Play Group are already cutting out their stars to decorate the Angel which will then be installed in St Peter's Church on December 9th and where it will be on view for the whole of the Christmas period.

To enrich the event the school will be working with the artists to create their own mini Angel lanterns. But so that everyone can be involved and have their own lantern for the procession there will be a community Lantern Workshop in Port Isaac Village Hall from 11am-3pm on Sunday November 27th, which is free and open to everyone to join in.

As singing has always been at the heart of Port Isaac, especially at Christmas, it seemed important in the planning stages to make it a big part of the project. Therefore, as well as the traditional carols, the children from Port Isaac School have written their own Angel Anthem which will be shared with local singers and other schools in the area and also sung on the night of the PISCES Carol Concert on Wednesday December 14th. We are holding a 'Sing Up' to learn the Angel Anthem in the Golden Lion on Tuesday December 6th. It will be a night of singing fortified with mince pies, mulled cider and wine provided by Beth & Marc, the landlady and landlord). Everyone is welcome to come along.

The Angel and Anthem will be performed at:

Bodmin on November 25th Port Isaac on December 2nd at 6pm Lostwithiel on December 8th

If you own a property and DON'T want lights on it then please ring 01208 880924 and let us know ... otherwise, "enjoy the show".

The 'Big Switch-on' is happening on Friday December 2nd. It will start from outside Port Isaac School at 6pm. A torch-lit procession of village children will follow a large 'Angel' lantern down to the Harbour for the switch-on. Christmas carols on the Platt will be played by the St Minver Band.

The angel is being created in Port Isaac by ARTiculate, a community art group who will be running a free lantern making day, for all ages, on Sunday November 27th from 11am-3pm in the Village Hall. Everyone is then welcome to bring their lanterns to be part of the procession on Switch-on night.

Mark and Louise, from Port Isaac Shuttle, will be offering free lifts up and down the village so as many people as possible can enjoy the evening.

We are hoping to have loads and loads of mince pies and mulled wine ... so get baking ladies and gentlemen!

WEBSITES OF THE MONTH

Hallowe'en has come round again so I thought some websites about this interesting festival would be worth exploring. I did a column about Cornish festivals, six years ago, so thought it was time for another look and this and again focus on the celebrations that happen around this time - Allantide, Halloween and Bonfire Night. So here is an updated version of my November 2010 column.

The Cornish festival of Allantide (Cornish Calan Gwaf or Nos Calan Gwaf), often described as the Cornish Halloween as they both come originally from the Celtic New Year, <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Allantide> has been traditionally celebrated on October 31st. As with the other Celtic festivals it marked the end of harvest and while it has its origins in pre-Christian times, the name comes from St Allen or Arlen, a Cornish Saint. What little is known about him and the parish named after him can be found here <http://www.cornwalls.co.uk/myths-legends/saints.htm> where they say St Allen near Truro also derives its name from this Celtic saint. It is difficult to track down who exactly he was, but he may have been St Elian from the 6th century <http://catholicsaints.info/saint-elian-of-brittany/> who apparently did some missionary work in Cornwall. It is said he may have followed his friend Saint Cybi into Cornwall.

October 31st is, of course, also Halloween itself, the feast of All Hallows <http://www.historic-uk.com/CultureUK/Halloween/>. The word Halloween means the eve of All Saints Day. Hallow itself appears to come from the Old English se hálga meaning "the holy man" and it has recently taken on a contemporary meaning in the Harry Potter books (.. and the Deathly Hallows). It also appears, of course, in the Lord's Prayer 'Hallowed be Thy name'.

When in the 7th century, the Church began celebrating All Saints Day on November 1st, the celebration was for those saints who didn't have a saints day. Allhallowtide – (details of its complex history can be found here <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Allhallowtide>) describes the Christian observances around this time for all the holy people. The night before All Saints Day became known as All Hallows Eve or Halloween. Then, at the beginning of the 11th century, November 2nd became All Souls Day https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/All\_Souls%27\_Day, a day in celebration for all our ancestors and, like Samhain, <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Samhain> it had bonfires and dressing up in costumes. Unlike the Celtic animal costumes, however, the Christians dressed up as saints, angels and devils to invoke the spirits of their ancestors.

And bonfire night, now of course associated with 'the gunpowder plot' has this much older history where fires were burned to ward off evil spirits. The origin of the name 'bonfire' appears to be 'bone fire' and is linked to a Gaelic festival coinciding with a time of year when there was slaughtering of animals and bones to burn. Apparently it marked the end of the lighter half of the year and the coming of the darker half, and we can all relate to that. So bonfires are, traditionally in fact, fires of animal bones, rather than as I always thought, good fires (from the French) or bonny fires (from Scotland). There is more about this and also the importance of apples for the festivals here <https://cornishculture.co.uk/portfolio/allantide-the-cornish-halloween/>

Finally, last month, continuing the climate change theme, I included the way that the amount of CO<sub>2</sub> in the atmosphere goes up and down with the seasons. One thing I didn't mention, was that we have passed a significant milestone (<http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/science-environment-37729033>). 400 parts per million (ppm) of CO<sub>2</sub> globally and the last time CO<sub>2</sub> was regularly above 400ppm was three to five million years ago. On the other hand there is also some really good news For the first time over half the world's energy generation was from renewable sources <http://tinyurl.com/jd3fas3>; at last a good record broken!

Martin's Slow Braised Pheasant

the pheasant, with the male cock's vivid and varied plumage and the female's subdued yet still attractive colouring

No-one knows precisely when the pheasant was first brought to British shores, or whether we should thank Roman Soldiers, Normans or Phoenician traders for their introduction.

Common pheasants are bred to be hunted and are shot in great numbers in Europe, especially the UK, where they are shot on the traditional formal "driven shoot" principles, whereby paying guns have birds driven over them by beaters, and on smaller "rough shoots". Generally they are shot by hunters employing gun dogs to help find, flush, and retrieve shot birds. Retrievers, spaniels, and pointing breeds are used to hunt pheasants. Pheasant season in the UK begins on the first of October and ends the first of February. The carcasses are often hung for a time to improve the meat by slight decomposition, as with most other game.

Slow Braised Pheasant, Cyder, Leeks and Mushrooms

1 oven ready Pheasant (keep the bones for stock)

Lay the pheasant upside down and with a pair of sharp kitchen scissors cut along the back bone from the breast following the line of the bone through the leg joint to the parson's nose. Repeat on the other side of the back bone.

Flip the bird over and with the hilt of a large chefs knife, cleaver of the ends of the legs that will have been tucked under the breast. Remove the breast bone (wish bone) as this makes it easier for filleting - I use a combination of a sharp knife and scissors.

Next with a sharp knife find the spine bone, which on pheasant is usually very visible, cut down on one side along the breast bone, then slow repeat this time following the line of the breast cage until you are at the bottom of the bird.

So what you are left with is a boneless breast joint with the leg attached to it - or at least hopefully that is what you are left with! I was doing this today and I am now regretting that I did not take any photos - needless to say this is a messy job!

Braising the bird

1 large leek/ per 2 birds
250g mushrooms/ per bird wild if possible.
Cyder ¼ pint per bird
1 onion sliced/ per bird
keep all of the vegetable trimmings!

First prepare all the vegetables, so with the leeks remove the top and the outer leaves, cut in half length wise and slice. Chop the mushrooms and peel and slice the onion.

In a large pan fry the pheasant bones legs and all, it's all flavour, and that's what we are looking for when the bones are nicely coloured add the veg trim, onion skin, leek tops and any thing else you have to hand, carrots add a sweetness to stock!

Cover with water and bring to the boil, then simmer for at least 2 hours, you can cheat on this by adding a chicken stock cube or two to the stock or just skip this step and just use chicken stock.

NB This is the difference between a chef and a cook, a chef will go that extra mile to make a good stock, whilst a cook will just use a stock cube. So this puts me ½ chef ½ cook because I use reduced stock glacé to enhance the flavour.

½ litre double cream, bay leaf, thyme and 1 lemon, salt & pepper

Turn your oven, up high, yes 230/250 normal, 230 fan, let it get up to heat.

In a deep lipped roasting tray add the mushrooms on top of this place the pheasant and top with the leeks and onions, add a drizzle of oil and mix, then season well with salt and pepper. Try to keep some of the leek/ onion above the pheasant, - what you want to do is colour it. Do not worry, charring is good, it's all flavour. Timing wise, you have to check it yourself, when it's golden brown it is done.

Turn the oven down 120c and remove the tray. Ok, so if your stock is nicely reduced and tasting great add it, but if not, just add the cyder, herbs, lemon and cream (the stock can be added later). Cover the roasting tray with foil and slow cook for 2/3 hours - the later the season the birds will need longer, also hens cook quicker than cocks!

Once cooked, remove birds from the cooking tray. Taste the sauce, add some pheasant stock, and put in a pan to reduce, boil/simmer until the sauce is tasting good. If you want to thicken it use a paste of cornflour and water - mix together to form a paste, and then add as needed but beware add it a bit at a time as it will go thicker with heat! And use a whisk!

If you have been down to Port Gaverne you will know it is hunting season - they all come down in their 4 by 4s and shoot the birds out of the sky, and thousands of them go into land fill - so I urge you to find a local butcher. Do not pay more than £4 max for a brace or if you are brave and fancy doing the whole hanging thing, let me know - martin.portisaac@gmail.com

Did you know: Pheasants can run at the speed of 8 to 10 miles per hour and fly at the speed of 35 to 45 miles per hour. Pheasants are also able to swim.
