

Millennium fun at Port Isaac

THE turn of the century sees the culmination of a year's hard fundraising for the Port Isaac Millennium Committee.

Commemorative Millennium mugs are now available to those who reserved them from Janet Chadband. All parish children under 16 whose names were given to Tracey Greenhalgh will receive a free mug during a short service in St Peter's Church on New Year's Day. Children can still be registered by calling Tracey on 880215 and additional mugs can be purchased at £7.50 from Janet Chadband or from Secrets.

A special disco for the Youth Club and local youngsters will take place early in the New Year. On New Year's Eve there will be music and mulled wine on the town Platt from 11pm.

The Port Isaac Millennium Clock will be officially switched on at 11.55 and as the 21st Century begins a celebratory firework display will take place on The Lobber.

Volunteers seeking to clear their heads on New Year's Day are invited to help clear up, and at 12 noon Father Michael will give a short service.

'Special' village's plans to celebrate Millennium

THE start of a new century sees the culmination of a year's hard fundraising for the Port Isaac Millennium Committee.

All parish children under 16 whose names were given to Tracey Greenhalgh will receive a free commemorative mug during a short service in St Peter's Church at noon on New Year's Day. Children can still be registered by calling Tracey on 880215 and additional mugs can be purchased at £7.50 from Janet Chadband or from Secrets.

A disco for the youth club and local youngsters will take place early in the New Year.

On New Year's Eve there will be music and mulled wine on the town Platt from 11pm, with some seating available under cover in the Boathouse for the not-so-young.

The Port Isaac Millennium Clock is to be officially switched on at 11.55 and as the 21st Century begins a celebratory firework display will take place on The Lobber. The best view will be from the village and in the interests of safety people should not go up to The Lobber.

Volunteers seeking to clear their heads on New Year's Day are invited to help clear up.

The Millennium committee say it had been a wonderful year full of support for the village with more than £6,000 raised, excluding money collected for the lights committee.

Denise Randell, a member of the committee, said: "Port Isaac is a very special place to those who live and visit here.

"We have decided to keep the Port Isaac 2000 fund running and there are many ideas for future projects. The major event next year will be the Port Isaac 2000 Music Festival and planning will move into top gear once the Millennium festivities are over."
