

"it's quite easy to disappear around the little corners and up and down the narrow alleys: very useful when the press gangs landed in the harbour looking for men"

