Dick Whittington and His Cat is an English folk story. It tells of a poor boy in the 14th century who eventually becomes the Lord Mayor of London because of the ratting abilities of his cat - if only success was that easy today!

In 1668, Samuel Pepys wrote in his famous diary "To Southwark Fair, very dirty, and there saw the puppet show of Whittington, which was pretty to see". Will this version of Dick Whittington be as pretty?

It will certainly be very different!

Here for your delectation are the Drekky Theatre Company who are, once again, putting on their frocks and make-up, slapping their thighs and bringing their very own slant to a well-loved fairy tale.

So sit back and enjoy yourself
