

Incidents at St Peters

Years ago we had a recorded peal of bells which sounded around the village every Sunday morning. Imagine the puzzlement in Port Isaac when the music to 'It's been a Hard Days Night' filled the air one quiet Sunday morning - yes choirboys are very mischievous!!

Then at a Christmas Eve Midnight Eucharist, a churchwarden accidentally sat on the fire extinguisher - it was set off and created a lot of mess as it was carried outside.

The hilarity at the back of the church was lost on the Rev Judith Pollinger who had no idea what was happening!

We've also had our tragedies.

Mrs Dunford, wife of Rev Dunford, and a member of the choir died during the Christmas Carol service.

Maundy Thursday saw a fire in St Peters church -the veils covering the crosses was burnt and the wood on the side altar singed. The police were called, but no culprit was ever found.
