" My husband and I retired to Port Isaac nearly 16 years ago. A few months later Barbara started a small painting class at the Pottery that I joined. Frank McNichol's class was already well established by then. After several years, when both classes ended about the same time, we decided to combine forces and the present small group was formed. It is a most enjoyable way to spend a morning, painting together, helping one another and chatting over a cup of tea. We have also had several most interesting trips to art exhibitions. Port Isaac is a lovely place to live. There is a very friendly atmosphere and there are many wonderful walks amid superb scenery."
